

Re-opening the World

Life after COVID-19

COVID-19 has accelerated the future of our homes. They will no longer be a place to spend just evenings and weekends.

Post COVID, the home of the future will be...

A Medical Consulting Room
as both families and the elderly increase their use of electronic diagnostic equipment & apps

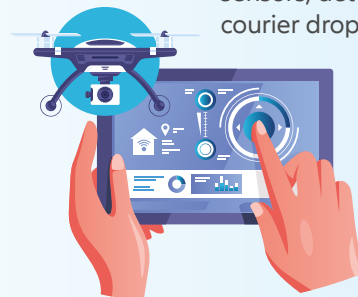

A Hub for Learning as university aged students stay home for some semesters, studying remotely

A Workplace both for office workers as businesses reassess their office policies but also for other professions (fitness experts, broadcasters, psychotherapists...)

A Digital Fortress with smart sensors, detectors, secure courier drop points and more...

These predictions come from Futurologist Ray Hammond, commissioned by Allianz Partners to look at how the world may be in 2021.
