

International healthcare plans for you and your family

What kinds of things are covered in an international healthcare plan?

Allianz  Care

Here are some of the things covered in our plans, just to give you a quick overview.

CORE PLAN

Covers the big things like operations and surgeon's fees which are generally the most expensive elements of medical care.

Hospital accommodation (private or semi private room), surgical fees and intensive care

Diagnostic tests including CT, MRI, PET and CT-PET scans

Rehabilitation treatment

Kidney dialysis and organ transplant

Cancer treatment

Local ambulance

Medical evacuation to another country for treatment, if the treatment you need is not available locally

OUT-PATIENT PLAN

Day to day trips to the doctor, seeing a specialist and blood tests among other things. Less expensive elements, but often more frequently needed than having an operation in a hospital.

Doctor and specialist fees

Vaccinations, health and wellness checks

Physiotherapy and speech therapy

Complementary therapies such as acupuncture, osteopathy and podiatry

Psychiatry and psychotherapy

Contact lenses including eye test

Dietician fees

MATERNITY PLAN

Just be aware that there is a waiting period, so if you're planning a family, it's good to have this plan in place already.

Routine delivery of your baby

Complications of childbirth

Care for your newborn

DENTAL PLAN

Day to day dental care and check-ups.

Routine fillings and check ups

Periodontics

Dental surgery

Orthodontic treatment and prostheses (e.g. crowns)

REPATRIATION PLAN

You get taken to your home country for treatment, if the treatment you need isn't available locally. Your home country needs to be within your chosen region of cover e.g. 'Worldwide excluding USA'.

You're flown to your home country for treatment, if the treatment you need is not available locally

Hotel accommodation costs if ongoing treatment is needed

Expenses for a family member to accompany the patient
